Halifax's Anthony lights up winless Herd

Police on hunt after playground burnt down

FIRE Some Halifax elementary students will be shocked and saddened when they return to school today to see their playground equipment has burned into a melted mess thanks to apparent vandals.

Acting platoon Chief Pat Keating of Halifax Regional Fire and Emergency Service said crews responded to the structure fire at the Highland Avenue school shortly before 11 p.m. Saturday.

"The call came in as visible flames," Keating said, adding investigators believe the blaze was "deliberately set."

He called the damage "extensive," despite the fact that it took only minutes for fire fighters to extinguish the suspicious blaze. Police are now investigating. Keating said crews also responded to a basement apartment fire on Maxwell Avenue in west-end Halifax at about 11 a.m. yesterday. "One person sustained smoke inhalation injuries."

A search and rescue crew scours the shoreline near Eastern Passage yesterday afternoon. At least a dozen vessels and a Cormorant helicopter searched the waters near the mouth of Halifax Harbour after a report of a 39-year-old fisherman falling overboard.

Rescue teams search for experienced fisherman off Devil's Island

A fisherman who fell overboard near Devil's Island early yesterday morning had still not been found late last night.

The 39-year-old man went out herring fishing with two other men on the vessel Lady Tiana early yesterday, according to the Halifax search and rescue centre. The centre received a call from the coast guard that he had fallen overboard shortly before 2:30 a.m.

"It appears he got tangled somehow and ended up going overboard," RCMP spokesman Cpl. Joe Taplin said yesterday. Officials said the man

Search scaled back overnight

• The search for the missing 39-year-old fisherman was scaled back last night because of darkness. The coast guard was maintaining a presence in the area but a Cormorant helicopter returned to base at CFB Greenwood and ground search teams stood down for the night.

was an experienced fisherman from Oyster Pond. The other two crew members claimed the man was not wearing a life jacket at the time, Taplin said. He apparently fell into the ocean about two nautical miles south of Devil's Island, near the Eastern Passage shore. Within moments, other fishing vessels began searching. They were soon joined by ships from the Joint Rescue Co-ordination Centre and a helicopter. But by 10:15 a.m., the man had still not been found and the Mounties were called in for a land search, Taplin said. They in turn called on Halifax Search and Rescue for help in sweeping the beach. More than 30 search and rescue members arrived but by nightfall the man had not been located.

Taplin said there had been some traces of the man brought ashore by fisherman involved in the search. "There (are) some pieces of clothing that have been located, but right now we're not at liberty to say which."

Military spokesman Maj. Paul Doucette confirmed the man wasn't wearing survival gear when he fell into the chilly September water.

"Even at the best of times in this part of the country, to be immersed in cold water for a long period of time would certainly hamper the chances of survival," Doucette said.

Doucette said the majority of the boats involved in the search were small fishing vessels that were assisting the coast guard cutter Sambro.

Manhunt underway for shooting suspect

KRISTEN LIPSCOMBE

CRIME Police investigators are trying to track down a man who's wanted for breaking into a Dartmouth home and shooting one of the residents inside during the early morning hours yesterday.

Halifax Regional Police say they responded to the shooting at 4:15 a.m. on the 200 block of Main Street, where they found a 45-year-old man suffering from a gunshot wound. Sgt. Nancy Rudback said the victim was hit in his "upper right leg" and was rushed to surgery.

He was in "stable condition" by late yesterday afternoon, Rudback said.

She said forensic identification team members were searching the residence "to see if there are any investigative leads."

After the victim was rushed to hospital, police spoke with a witness who said he and the victim had both been "asleep inside the residence when their dog started to bark," an HRP news release says.

The victim went to investigate, the witness said, and ran into an armed intruder.

Rudback said it doesn't appear the residents know the suspect, who was described to police as a five-foot-eight, black man with a thin build.

He was wearing a dark hoodie and light-coloured jeans when the incident occurred.

NDP opts to freeze salaries

Liberal Leader McNeil says announcement just a ploy

Nova Scotia will implement a two-year freeze on salaries for members of the legislature, senior civil servants and political staff, the province's NDP government said in a pre-budget announcement yesterday.

The move mirrors a measure contained in the budget presented by the former Conservative government in early May.

The changes will be contained in the Financial Measures Act, which will be tabled after the New Democrats present their budget this Thursday.

Deputy premier Frank Corbett said with the province facing a deficit of $590 million, the government must be prepared to "lead by example."

Members of the Nova Scotia House of Assembly currently make $86,000 a year.

"I think it goes along with our overall plan of living within our means," Corbett said.

The announcement followed quickly on the heels of a government move last week to eliminate two major perks, including a special $45,000 payment to defeated and retired legislative members. Also, outgoing members are no longer allowed to keep their taxpayer-supplied office furniture.

Corbett said the announcements aren't a matter of the government garnering political points with the public ahead of what could be some tough fiscal measures.

But Liberal Leader Stephen McNeil said the announcement was nothing more than a headline grab by the NDP.

"There's nothing new here; this was proposed by the previous government May 4 and we supported it at that time," McNeil said. "This is about the NDP government attempting to grab a headline and really not give any substantive way in how they are going to control this large deficit we have in the province."

McNeil also pointed out that Premier Darrell Dexter had largely dismissed the freeze idea as the Tories "playing politics" when it was announced in the spring.

"I guess the question for Mr. Dexter would be 'Is he playing politics today?'" McNeil said.

In another move the NDP also proclaimed changes brought in by the Conservatives in 2007, tying increases in annual salaries and indemnities for house members to those of civil servants.

Fisher claims council byelection

 kristen.lipscombe@metronews.ca

VOTE Darren Fisher will now represent East Dartmouth-The Lakes residents in city council chambers.

The businessman beat out six other candidates in Saturday's byelection for the seat left empty by former city councillor Andrew Younger, who made the jump to provincial politics in June's election. Younger successfully ran for the Liberals and is now MLA for Dartmouth East.

Unofficial results on Halifax Regional Municipality's website show Fisher snagged 1,994 of the votes, while another former East Dartmouth-The Lakes representative, Brian Warshick, trailed in second place with 856 ballots cast in his favour.

The other four candidates vying for the vacant seat were Tracey Devereaux, who managed 826 votes, Phil Brown with 349, Robin L. Allen with 187, John McMillan with 101 and Shane Dafeo with 78 votes.

On his election campaign website, Fisher says he is a father of two young children and spends much of his time in hockey rinks and on ball fields. He owns general stores with his brother and has helped raised thousands of dollars for groups such as Bryony House and the IWK Health Centre, the website says.

"As your councillor I will listen closely to the people of my community and I will use my energy to make things happen," Fisher writes.

Store workers tied up as bandits rob supermarket

SYDNEY RIVER Police in Sydney River are looking for two armed men after three Sobeys employees working the overnight shift were tied up and the grocery store robbed early yesterday.

Police believe the thieves gained entry to the supermarket when a maintenance worker opened a locked door in the shipping area to retrieve floor-cleaning equipment.

Once inside, the robbers bound the legs and arms of the three workers and told them to lie on the floor.

Police say the pair then spent approximately half an hour looting the store but an inventory will have to be done to determine what and how much was taken.

The three employees, who were not hurt, were able to free themselves and call the police after the thieves left.

Police question, release man in sleep-watcher case

kristen.lipscombe@metronews.ca

Halifax Regional Police have let a man go without charging him in relation to a string of incidents in which women have woken up to find a strange man in their bedrooms.

Staff Sgt. Brenda Zima confirmed officers arrested a man early Friday morning "a short distance away" from the latest break-and-enter on College Street, but added he was released from custody Saturday.

"He matched the description that we were given by the female occupant of the resident," Zima said yesterday. "He was taken into custody and investigated and at this time he's been released without charges, pending further investigation."

Police said in a news release that officers responded to the 5900 block of the south-end Halifax street at about 4:20 a.m.

"When the suspect realized the victim was awake, he ran out of the house," the release said, adding the man was arrested less than 15 minutes later on Carlton Street.

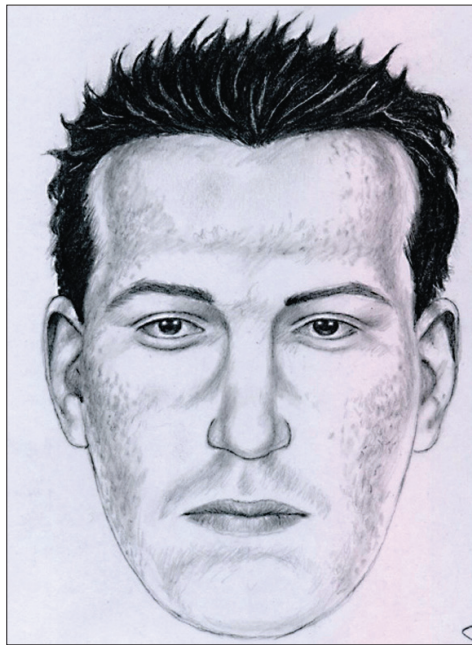

"The woman was understandably shaken ... but thankfully not injured," it said.

Zima explained police "only have 24 hours to either hold them or charge them and if we don't have enough evidence to charge them at the time, we release them."

"It doesn't mean that we won't charge them in the future," she said.

Zima couldn't comment as to whether the man who has been questioned is still a suspect. Police have investigated 14 similar cases.

Police searches turn up large amounts of illegal drugs

HALIFAX Plenty of illegal drugs have turned up across the municipality recently.

Halifax RCMP said officers found 18 grams of cocaine, along with scales and other drug paraphernalia, when they searched a Matador Court residence in Lower Sackville last Thursday night.

A 25-year-old man and 23-year-old woman were scheduled to appear in Dartmouth provincial court on charges of possession for the purpose of trafficking last Friday.

Meanwhile late last Thursday night, fire fighters responded to a grease blaze on the 5000 block of Rector Street in Halifax, only to discover a loaded firearm and "a quantity of crack cocaine," police said.

Halifax Regional Police showed up to arrest a woman in relation to the weapon and drugs found there.

Pedro Almodovar's latest stars a familiar face — Penelope Cruz

AFF

Film history has given us a myriad of directors who play favourites, who channel their visions through an actor, using them as their vessel.

Think John Ford and John Wayne, Martin Scorsese and Robert DeNiro, Tim Burton and Johnny Depp. In the case of beloved Spanish filmmaker Pedro Almodovar, it's beyond a shred of doubt, the lovely Penelope Cruz. Cruz has been the director's muse since he first cast her in his 1997 film Live Flesh and has since continued to use her as his female counterpart in gorgeous, sensual and eccentric works like 1999's All About My Mother and 2006's Valencia.

His latest is the multi-layered romantic tragedy/film noir Broken Embraces, a picture that exemplifies their mutual maturation as artists.

"Our relationship keeps changing and evolving," says the actress. "It gets to the point where we often know what the other one is thinking."

Broken Embraces sees Cruz essaying the role of Lena, a failed actress who is manipulated into marrying a lecherous millionaire before she is "rescued" by a dashing film director (Lluís Homar).

When their professional relationship slips into a passionate sexual and emotional love affair, jealousy and eventually murder rear their hideous heads.

Ultimately, however, with his love for classic Hollywood melodrama and specifically, 1950's All About Eve, this is really just a film about Almodovar's love of film.

"I think of (Lena) as three women in one," Cruz explains, referencing the multitude of personas and visages her character adopts, including that of Marilyn Monroe and Audrey Hepburn.

"I see the film as an homage to some of the people in cinema that Pedro admires the most."

This is easily Cruz's best performance to date. And it's a given that she'd work for her director again — and again — at a moment's notice.

"He's had me as a whore giving birth on a bus, as a nun who gets pregnant from a transsexual. He's a genius and

Canadian filmmakers finding opportunities

PAUL MCLEOD

Atlantic Film Festival

AFF

There's never been a better time in history for new Canadian filmmakers.

That was the message from one of Canada's top producers, who spoke yesterday at an Atlantic Film Festival luncheon in Halifax.

"I don't think there's ever been more opportunity to make a film," Kevin Tierney, whose movies include Bon Cop, Bad Cop — the highest-grossing Canadian film in domestic box office history.

"There (are) so many festivals looking for young people's films; new filmmakers," he said.

Tierney said the digital revolution has made it possible for students to get their hands on cameras and editing equipment. There's also a

"This generation has at their disposal ways of generating content that nobody had in the past."

Director Kevin Tierney

burst of new ways to get your movie seen, such as on YouTube.

But he said in the end, it comes down to the content, not to the equipment used.

"Everybody's looking for scripts. Everybody's looking for content. And this generation has at their disposal ways of creating content that nobody had in the past," Tierney told Metro.

"I mean, where would I have got a 35 millimetre camera, a 16 millimetre camera or even a Super 8 camera? Now you can make a movie off your phone."

But as someone involved in the film industry for decades,

Tierney doesn't sugarcoat the unique challenges of making a commercially successful Canadian movie.

"Unfortunately, the market is harder. It's harder to sell movies to the international market, and it's harder to get financing from outside of Canada for Canadian movies," he said.

Two of Tierney's new films are playing at the Atlantic Film Festival — Love and Savagery and The Trotsky, which was written and directed by his son Jacob. At an industry speech yesterday, he stressed the importance of entertaining audiences.

Tierney said the tradition of Canadian films have tended towards sombre, personal stories that don't reach out to viewers. But now, he says, that's beginning to change.

Group calls for debate on province's finances

BUDGET There has to be greater public debate in Nova Scotia about balancing short-term crisis management with long-term crisis prevention, the Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives said yesterday in releasing its "alternative budget."

The Nova Scotia section, a coalition of academics and community representatives, said the province needs a fiscal package that provides for greater social and economic equality and creates a greener economy. The governing New Democrats will table their budget on Thursday.

"We need to get to a place where the focus is on getting at the root causes of the problems and sustainable solutions," CCPA-NS director Christine Saulnier said in a release.

The coalition is proposing a 30 per cent rise in social assistance income rates, the removal of community college tuition and the promotion of environmental sustainability among other measures.

Economist and working group member Angella McEwen said alarming the public over the deficit and debt detracts from discussion about what's in the best interests of Nova Scotians. "As it stands there is no fiscal crisis and the debt is manageable and justified as is the current deficit," she said.

Big cash for promos, but not flu awareness

Tories spending more on ads touting economic plan

The Conservative government is spending more than five times as many taxpayer dollars on promoting its economic plan as it is on raising public awareness about the flu pandemic.

Television viewers may have noticed the latest feel-good government ads about stimulus spending, including the Conservative-friendly, anti-election pitch: "We can't stop now," and "We have to stay on track."

All the ads direct viewers to a Tory-blue government website that includes more than 40 different photos of Prime Minister Stephen

Harper and refers repeatedly to "the Harper government" — apparently in direct contravention of Treasury Board communications policy.

The TV spots are just the latest $4-million salvo in a $34-million media blitz trumpeting the Conservative's recession-fighting budget. Meanwhile, with public health officials fretting over an onrushing fall flu season, the spread of the H1N1 virus, no television ads are in the works to combat swine flu.

Opposition MPs say the spending disparity in the two ad campaigns simply highlights the obvious:

The government is using public funds to toot its own horn.

"Guys, you're spending all this money to promote yourselves. Maybe some work on the prevention of H1N1 would be helpful," Liberal critic Martha Hall-Findlay said.

Sea monster in B.C.?

Brigitte Horvath knew she saw something strange in Cameron Lake on Vancouver Island two years ago and a team of researchers say she might be right.

Was it a fish, an eel or some kind of serpent-like creature? She says she didn't know.

The researchers who specialize in looking for so-called cryptozoological creatures — in other words, monsters — spent Saturday on the lake probing the depths with a sonar-like fish finder.

"We were quite stunned that there was something ... big in the lake and it was

Strange sightings

- There are 41 different lakes in British Columbia where strange animal sightings have been reported, according to John Kirk, president of the British Columbia Scientific Cryptozoology Club.

in about 60 feet of water, less than 30 yards from shore, it was quite amazing," said John Kirk, president of the British Columbia Scientific Cryptozoology Club.

Horvath, who lives in Nanaimo, said she was driving along Highway 4 on July 30, 2007, when she saw a strange semi-circle in the lake.

"You could see like a serpent shape," said Horvath, who isn't the only person to report something strange in Cameron Lake.

Unfortunately, Kirk said the team accidentally lost its underwater camera and was unable to explore further.

Because the weather will deteriorate in the fall and winter, another search will have to wait until next year, he added.

Canada's Olympic pavilion won't promote provinces, says minister

VANCOUVER Canada's $10-million pavilion promoting this country during the 2010 Vancouver Olympics will be too broad to include the provinces, a federal cabinet minister said yesterday, explaining why Ottawa turned down a request from British Columbia to combine efforts.

Edwards fathered child: Aide

A man who once claimed to have fathered the child of John Edwards' mistress says in a book proposal the former Democratic U.S. presidential candidate is the real father and that Edwards worked with his campaign finance chairman to hide that secret. The couple was arrested Friday and faces at least 27 months in prison if convicted of conspiracy to transport stolen property. Still standing after another year

HineSight

metronews.ca/hinesight

Yes, readers, it's time once again for our annual "My life in review." Some people choose New Year's Day to stop to take stock, but if you ask me, there are two times you should never think about how life is going: a) when you're nursing a hangover; and b) when it's mid-winter in Canada. Which, frankly, feel pretty much the same.

Finances: My local banker has completed a thorough assessment of my financial position and says she's confident that I can retire on my 65th birthday and live in complete comfort. Just so long as I get hit by a meteor the day after. At the moment, my retirement savings are confined to whatever loose change is under the couch cushions. Obviously, it's time for me to adopt a clear, effective financial strategy and stick with it. The strategy I've decided on is called "denial." So, for "finances" I'm giving myself a C this year. It stands for "Could stand a little help."

Love/Relationships: Some insist that "long-term relationship" is an oxymoron. Much like "bad sex" or "too much coffee." As my partner, Liz, and I head into our second decade together,

SunnySide

I've come to believe there are upsides and downsides to long-term relationships. The upside is living with someone who knows exactly what you're like. The downside is ... pretty much the same thing. For love/relationships, I'm giving myself a G. It stands for "Grateful."

Work/career: This year, I achieved what represents as total success in today's job market: I had one. Still, many of us hope for more. Buddha said, "Success is not happiness. Happiness is success. If you are doing what you love, you are successful." My version goes: "Paying the hydro bill is not happiness. But it helps." The perfect job is one that addresses both your dreams and your debt. I'm giving myself a B for career. It means, "Still a believer."

Wisdom: Liz's rule for life is, "Act with kindness and care, everywhere and with everyone. Except, of course, when you're playing hockey." I learned two important things this year. First, when the makers of allergy medication suggest you not take more than the recommended dosage, there really is a reason for this. And the only way to change your life is to change yourself.

Overall? I'm giving myself an A. It stands for "Absolutely Still Standing." At least for another year.

Leave keys at home for World Carfree Day

UrbanScrawl

Christina Biluk

metronews.ca/urbanscrawl

In honour of World Carfree Day tomorrow, make a pledge to leave your car at home for the day. Imagine what Halifax could look and feel like with fewer (or no) cars on the road.

Anyone living in Nova Scotia is aware of residents' reliance on private automobiles to get around. Studies have indicated our reliance on automobiles is a leading contributor to increased rates of physical inactivity and chronic disease.

In addition to these health concerns, rising gas prices have created a financial barrier to transportation. The need for sustainable, affordable transportation is growing.

The Ecology Action Centre has released statistics that indicate 27 per cent of Nova Scotia's greenhouse gas emissions are emitted from the transportation sector (including passenger and freight movement).

To encourage sustainable transport, the FUSION Halifax Sustainability Action Team will be out rewarding individuals who are using alternative forms of transit tomorrow. The team will be set up outside the Spring Garden Road Public Library from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

As part of its effort, the group intends on using the day's activities to highlight the need (and appetite) for more bike lanes in the city.

One of the most common reasons Haligonians give for not taking their bike is the lack of safe places to ride in Halifax.

To get a better idea of where Haligonians want to be able to ride, the sustainability team will be asking people where they'd like to have new (or incremental) bike lanes in the city. By participating, you can lend your support to the group's initiative to improve the number of bike lanes.

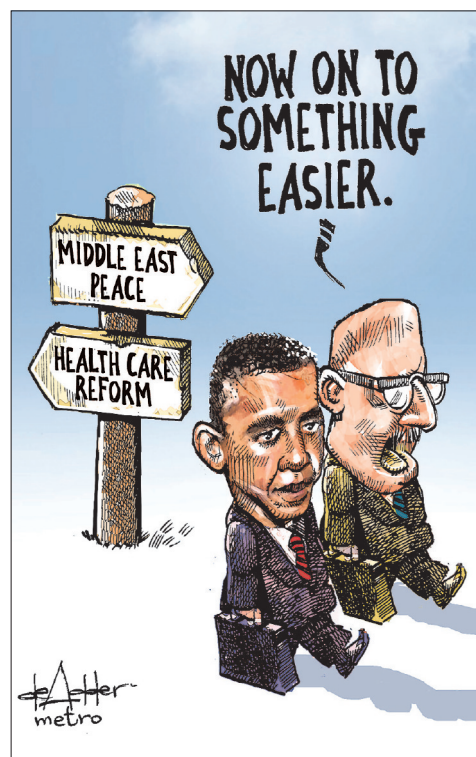

The lack of alternative transportation options to easily (and quickly) move across the city has become a growing barrier for people using alternative transportation to get to a job, access education, health-care and social opportunities.

World Carfree Day reminds us we should all be seeking ways to decrease our reliance on our personal automobiles. From carpooling with a colleague or neighbour, to taking the bus or walking (even a few days each week), we can dramatically decrease our emissions and, in some cases, even improve our health (depending on the alternative methods we use).

So hang up your car keys tomorrow and head to work using a form of alternative transportation. I'll see you on the sidewalk.

Ruling stinks for eBay

A French court has found eBay responsible for brand counterfeiting and ordered the online marketplace operator to pay the luxury group LVMH 80,000 euros ($126,000) compensation for damages caused to famous perfume brands like Christian Dior and Kenzo. Scammers need more than stiff sentences, say victims

Stiffer sentences for white-collar criminals promised by the federal government are only a first step in the battle against Ponzi and other financial scams that seem to grab headlines almost daily, victims say.

They say there's still a crying need for public education, proper enforcement and industry regulation with teeth to combat crimes that can be as devastating for victims as any serious assault.

"It's just as serious or violent or other crime," said Joey Davis of Montreal whose mother lost $200,000 to an alleged fraud by investment dealer Earl Jones. "It's emotionally violent, it's mentally violent."

On Tuesday, representatives of nine victims groups met Prime Minister Stephen Harper to complain about the anemic fight against white-collar crimes such as Ponzi schemes that have seen thousands of small-time investors defrauded.

Following the meeting with Harper, Justice Minister Rob Nicholson promised legislation this fall that would impose mandatory minimum jail terms, longer sentences and confiscation of assets. He gave no details, but said the government was also planning to change the rule that allows white-collar criminals to get parole after serving just one-sixth of their sentence.

10-year low for gas

2009 profits to drop 60 per cent: Think tank

Canada's natural gas producers will reap their lowest profits in a decade this year, the Conference Board of Canada predicted Friday, as prices remain stubbornly below what's needed to entice companies to drill.

The Ottawa-based economics think-tank said the gas industry's overall profits will total just $2.3 billion this year, down 60 per cent from last year and the lowest since 1999.

It also says output by Canadian gas producers will be down five per cent in 2009 from last year's

Prices dropping

- Natural gas prices have tumbled from a high of $13 US per 1,000 cubic feet in July 2008 to below $2 US per 1,000 cubic feet earlier this month, prompting many firms to rein in drilling.

level, which was 5.2 per cent below 2007 output.

"So much has changed for the natural gas industry in just one year," said Todd Crawford, an economist with the board.

"Last year, revenues more than doubled over the first six months as gas prices skyrocketed. Now, low prices and the tough credit conditions have created a perfect storm that sent drilling activity in Canada tumbling this year."

Canada's junior oil and gas sector has been hit particularly hard, since the lion's share of its activities are focused around natural gas, as opposed to more lucrative oil developments. In its report, the Conference Board said it expects gas-sector profits will begin to grow again in 2010.

Kids have the most to lose

EarthTones

Sophia Dore & Andrew Laursen

metronews.ca/earthtones

Our friend's little girl, Joelle, is sick in the hospital. Late at night, as we rock our baby to sleep, we think of what our friends are going through and our hearts ache for them. Though Joelle's illness is not caused by environmental factors, it got us thinking about how vulnerable millions of children are to the hazards of this dirty world.

Fetuses and young children are more vulnerable because their biological defences are still forming, and they are can't detoxify harmful substances and repair damage the way adults can. Children also eat more food, drink more liquids, and breathe more air than adults on a pound-for-pound basis.

The saying goes that a child eats a peck of dirt, but what if that dirt contains harmful chemicals such as pesticides, dirty air from urban areas and roads, mercury or flame retardants? Children are in a critical period of development, and toxic exposures can lead to a far-ranging number of health issues.

Pesticides can cause low birth weights, developmental delays, and attentional and behavioural disorders. Air pollutants have contributed to the epidemic of childhood asthma, while mercury and flame retardants such as PCBs and PDBEs can end up in our food through polluted waterways. Fetal and childhood exposure to these chemicals can affect neurological development.

A major factor in kids' exposures to these pollutants is the income bracket they happen to be born into. Lower income children tend to live closer to industrial areas, highways, and in older buildings. They and their mothers may also consume lower quality food that may be more subject to contamination.

We owe it to these kids to clean up our act and give them clean air to breathe and clean food (and dirt) to eat. Get well soon Joelle.

Sophia Dore is an environmental scientist with Conestoga-Rovers & Associates. Andrew Laursen is an assistant professor at Ryerson University. earthtones.metro@gmail.com.

Today is the Global Climate Wake-Up Call, an international day of action that will prompt thousands of citizens to come together for five-minute flash mobs — all in the hopes of grabbing the attentions of world leaders ahead of a Climate Change Conference in Copenhagen this December.

Greg Boyle is the organizer of today's Parliament Hill Wake-Up Call in Ottawa, which will include participants forming a human clock to show "we are running out of time."

"Global leaders have only three months to get their act together and sign a strong climate treaty in Copenhagen," Boyle explains via email. "We need to show the government of Canada that we are sick of their inaction."

Julia Morgan organized a Wake-Up Call in Toronto after losing sleep over climate change: "That sounds a bit crazy, I realize ... Climate change is really not that external and it's really not that far away."

She's encouraging participants to make noise and wear business attire to symbolize that climate change is everyone's business.

MATTHEW WUEST

Steven Anthony sent the Halifax Mooseheads skidding further into last place yesterday in Saint John, N.B.

The 18-year-old Halifax native, just back from training camp with the Vancouver Canucks, netted a hat trick to help his Saint John Sea Dogs thump the Mooseheads 6-1 in Quebec Major Junior Hockey League play at Harbour Station.

The Mooseheads trailed 2-1 after 40 minutes, but the Sea Dogs exploded in the third to sink the Mooseheads, who also lost their home-opener 3-1 to the Bathurst Titan on Friday and are the only winless team in the league at 0-4.

Mooseheads head coach and general manager Cam Russell did not respond to post-game phone messages.

Anthony, who had 48 points last season and was drafted in the seventh round (187th overall) in June's NHL draft by the Canucks, scored a pair in the first period and another in the third period and was named the game's first star.

Travis Randell scored Halifax's lone goal in the first period. Mooseheads rookie goaltender Joel Grounind made his first career start and allowed six goals on 32 shots.

and defensive miscues cost Halifax that night.

"It'll come, I guess," said Mooseheads blueliner Pascal Amyot on Friday. "We're missing little assignments ... like just driving the net after a shot. Little things like that."

It's a rough start for Halifax, which is coming off a last-place finish that saw them lose 49 of 68 games.

The Mooseheads return to action this coming weekend, with home games on Saturday at 7 p.m. against the Gatineau Olympiques and Sunday at 4 p.m. against the Victoriaville Tigres.

'I made a mistake,' says Schembri

DISCIPLINE Chuckie Schembri admits he made a mistake and deserved the fate of being sent home by the Halifax Mooseheads.

The 19-year-old forward was kicked off the Mooseheads for disciplinary reasons last week after an incident that occurred on a road trip to Sydney two weekends ago.

"I was treated fairly," Schembri said. "I made a mistake that at that level you just can't do. And being 19, I don't get second chances. It's too bad I didn't really even get a chance to prove anything on the ice. But that is no one's fault but my own."

Saint Mary's Huskies rookie running back Tristan Jones rushes the ball through four Acadia Axemen defenders on Saturday night in Wolfville.

Huskies quickly return to form

FOOTBALL The Saint Mary's Huskies are back on their feet.

The Huskies rebounded Saturday from a season-opening loss to the St. Francis Xavier X-Men, piling up 503 yards of offence en route to a 38-10 thumping of the Acadia Axemen in Atlantic University Sport football action in Wolfville.

Huskies head coach Steve Sumarah said his club was "way better" on both sides of the ball in Week 2.

"Not to the point we're going to order rings, but we showed improvement,"

Sumarah said. "Every week is a stepping stone to getting to where we want to be in the playoffs."

The Huskies had possession of the ball for more than 40 minutes led by quarterback Jack Creighton, who piled up 284 yards and had no interceptions after being picked off four times in the season-opener. Fifth-year receiver Joe Doherty caught both of Creighton's touchdown passes on an 83-yard day.

Craig Leger rushed for the other touchdown and Devon Jones led the ground game with 108 yards on 14 attempts. Justin Palardy rounded out the offence with five field goals.

Goin' home

• The Huskies finally make their home debut on Saturday at 2 p.m. against the Sherbrooke Vert et Or.

As he was in Week 1, Sumarah was particularly impressed with his defence. He was also glad to see turnovers significantly reduced and progress on the offensive side of things.

"Joe Doherty ... played with a nice high level of confidence," Sumarah said. Saint Mary's is tied with Acadia for second in the AUS with a 1-1 record.

The X-Men are first at 2-0.

NFL RESULTS

New England 9 N.Y. Jets 16

Mark Sanchez came out throwing in the second half after a quiet first two quarters, connecting with Dustin Keller on a go-ahead touchdown as the New York Jets beat Tom Brady and the New England Patriots 16-9 yesterday.

At East Rutherford, N.J., Brady was unable to engineer his 30th comeback victory as Sanchez took a knee twice to seal the first win for the Jets (2-0) over the Patriots (1-1) at home in nine games. Brady had beaten the Jets in 12 of the previous 14 games he had faced them overall.

Sanchez finished 14-of-22 for 163 yards and the touchdown to Keller, while Brady was 23-of-47 for 216 yards and an interception.

Bills 33 Buccaneers 20 — At Orchard Park, N.Y., Donte Whitner returned an interception 76 yards for a touchdown, and Terrell Owens scored on a 43-yard catch in his home debut for the Bills.

Buffalo (1-1) ended a five-game home losing streak. The Buccaneers (0-2) have lost six straight and continue to struggle on defense after allowing 438 yards.

Chelsea remains unbeaten

SOCCER Chelsea beat Tottenham 3-0 to make it six wins in a row yesterday and Michael Owen scored Manchester United's winner in the sixth minute of injury time in a 4-3 thriller over Manchester City.

Ashley Cole, Michael Ballack and Didier Drogba kept Carlo Ancelotti's Chelsea three points clear at the top of the Premier League with 18 points as the Blues maintained their perfect start against a Spurs side which has now lost twice in a row.

Leftback Cole scored with a diving header in the 32nd minute and Ballack scrambled the ball home in the 58th after Drogba's initial shot had been saved. Drogba rolled the ball into an empty net in the 63rd after outpacing Vedran Corluka.

Man City manager Mark Hughes watched his side rally three times at Old Trafford to make it 3-3 going into injury time and was furious at the amount of time added on by the officials before Owen scored the winner.

Wayne Rooney's second-minute goal was cancelled out by Gareth Barry after United 'keeper Ben Foster had lost possession on the edge of his area to City's Carlos Tevez, who was playing against United for the first time since his off-season move.

Darren Fletcher regained United's lead with a header but Craig Bellamy equalized again with a drive into the roof of the net.

Louis Saha scored twice as Everton outplayed Blackburn 3-0 to move out of the relegation zone and Wolves beat Fulham 2-1 with goals by Kevin Doyle and David Edwards. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Work ethic, passion drives entrepreneur

RAFAEL BRUSILOV
for Metro Canada

Abby Tobias is proof that youth and inexperience don't have to be an obstacle in the entrepreneurial world.

The 30-year-old president of event company Sole Power Productions has spent seven years helping produce events for the likes of the Molson Indy, YTV awards, Much Music Video Awards, the CHIN picnic and the Grey Cup and he also donates his time and resources regularly to charity events and foundations.

Tobias started DJing when he was 15 and struck big success at age 17 when he started managing a group of dancers called Boogie Brats.

"I never had a real job. I was doing $50 gigs and I was in heaven. I thought I was rich," Tobias said.

At the age of 23, he started Sole Power Productions in his mother's basement with a few thousand dollars, contracting out DJs to high-profile events. Today, Sole Power produces more than 300 events per year.

Alongside his love of music, Tobias always had a powerful entrepreneurial spirit that he credits for being the driving force in his life.

"I was never money-hungry but I'm definitely success-hungry — I never wanted to be second-best at anything I did. I work harder than most people and I think that's why I have success," Tobias said.

Tobias has a degree in Radio and Television from Ryerson University and says he's learned business is all about passion and perseverance.

"I've never read a business book on how to get rich. It ultimately comes down to being passionate about what you do. My passion drives me — I'm that guy that doesn't go to sleep until the day's work is done," he said.

Tobias has worked with charities like the Pencer Brain Trust and POGO, which provide relief and resources for people living with brain tumours and other cancers. He produced Breakin' for Cancer in 2007, which raised $40,000 for cancer research and created the Guinness World Record for the longest break dancing circle (24 hours).

He also started a charity program at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children that provides musical instruments to kids in need and he frequently donates to the Israel Emergency Fund on behalf of clients.

It's all part of Tobias' belief in good karma.

"I think if you're good to others then they'll be good to you," he said.

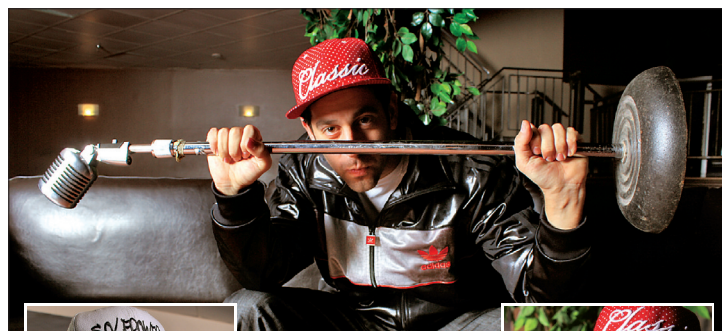

Recently Tobias was a presenter on the hit show Dragon's Den, where inventors and owners looking for investors present their business ideas to wealthy judges. While he can't say what his episode, airing sometime in October, is about, he admits he felt a little jealous being on the defensive end of the business table.

"I joked with one of the producers that I don't want to be on Dragon's Den, I want to be a Dragon!"

Being at the top does not stop harassment

EQUALITY A recent Globe and Mail article revealed that almost 50 per cent of women in positions of power reported experiencing sexual harassment in the workplace — a number much higher than those in non-management positions.

"This makes sense in terms of what we know," said Louise Ripley, York University professor of business and women's studies, "that power is at the root of the harassment. It's not about sex."

Ripley, who teaches a gender issues and management course, told Metro that men often respond to women in power by trying to bring them down. Doing so, she says, is an attempt to reduce their power and establish dominance and boundaries in the workplace. Sexuality is often the approach men take to stake out their position.

It's true, of course, that it's not just women in managerial positions who face harassment. It's just a different kind. The harassment faced by women in higher positions is more subtle, she says, that is not overtly sexual in nature.

Ten acts vying for prestigious Polaris Music Prize tonight

It's common for artists to be gracious when it comes to accepting award nominations, but when Hey Rosetta! was shortlisted for the Polaris Music Prize this year, they took their humility a step further.

The St. John's, N.L., band's frontman Tim Baker said he was shocked because he didn't think their record was "worthy."

"I guess we just never thought of ourselves in that sort of league — the real recording artists that really kind of push the boundaries, artistically," Baker said. Not long ago it might have seemed a bit strange for a band to feel unworthy of the prize, but this is the year that a class of Polaris veterans has emerged.

For the first time in the award's four-year history this year's short list includes artists who have been nominated before.

Of the 10 bands or artists vying for the $20,000 prize, to be handed out at a Toronto gala tonight, six have been shortlisted before, including 2007 winners Patrick Watson.

Halifax singer/songwriter Joel Plaskett, up for his ambitious triple album Three, Toronto new-wave band Metric, Toronto hip-hop artist K'naan, Montreal francophone indie-rockers Malajube and Calgary indie pop experimentalist Chad VanGaalen are the other artists shortlisted a second time for the prize, which is awarded by a jury of music journalists and based strictly on merit, not sales.

There are other contenders. F—ed Up — first-time nominees — have to be in the mix for their criti-

Joel Plaskett is up for the Polaris Music Prize tonight. The event will be broadcast live on CBC Radio 3 (radio3.cbc.ca).

The nominees ...

- Elliott Brood, Mountain Meadows; F—ed Up, The Chemistry of Common Life; Great Lake Swimmers, Lost Channels; Hey Rosetta!, Into Your Lungs; K'naan, Troubadour; Malajube, Labyrinthes; Metric, Fantasies; Joel Plaskett, Three; Chad VanGaalen, Soft Airplane; Patrick Watson, Wooden Arms.

cally beloved disc, The Chemistry of Common Life. It was among the Top 20 best-reviewed albums last year, according to online review aggregator Metacritic.

Metric can't be counted out — they have one of the most commercially successful albums on the short list in Fantasies, a record that many critics also saw as their strongest work to date. Toronto's Great Lake Swimmers are also nominated for their fourth album, Lost Channels.

A deuce for Mad Men in best TV drama category

Close called it a "huge privilege" to be part of entertainment community, then tweaked her show's writers.

Her role is "maybe the character of my lifetime, depending on what they do this season," Close said.

Michael Emerson, who plays the cruelly devious Ben on Lost, and Cherry Jones, the stalwart U.S. president on 24, were honoured as best supporting actors in drama series.

Diana Krall: Live in Rio

The British Columbia-born jazz singer takes her act on the road — a very long road — in this new special. She's in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, performing old favorites as well as songs from her most recent album, "Quiet Nights" — which is an eclectic mix of show tunes ("Where or When"), torch songs ("Guess I'll Hang My Tears Out to Dry") and classic pop ("How Can You Mend a Broken Heart"). 9 PM on BRAVO

Dancing With the Stars

Hosts Tom Bergeron and Samantha Harris return along with judges Len Goodman, Bruno Tonioli and Carrie Ann Inaba, but as always the spotlight is on the "stars" themselves, and the ninth-season lineup is even more hoot-worthy than most, including hoofers ranging from former teenage sitcom witch Melissa Joan Hart to Donny Osmond. 9 PM on ABC, CJCH

Accidentally on Purpose

Golden Globe winner Jenna Elfman ("Dharma & Greg") returns to series television as Billie, an impetuous film critic who, after an unsettling encounter with her old flame and boss (Grant Show), embarks on a passionate one-night stand with a much younger man (Jon Foster) that leaves her pregnant. Ashley Jensen ("Ugly Betty") and Nicolas Wright co-star in this new sitcom. 9:30 PM on CBS

Charlize Theron has no plans to marry her boyfriend of eight years, Stuart Townsend, until there is marriage equality. The actress told The View: "The institution of marriage feels very one-sided, and I want to live in a country where we all have equal rights." POPEATER.COM

Things are complicated for Avril

COLD FEET? Avril Lavigne and Deryck Whibley, who announced their split on Thursday, seemed like the perfect rock couple. But at the age of 24, Lavigne began to see things differently, sources tell People.

"She married too young and she finally realized that," said a source. "Avril realized she needs her own life and needs to explore things without him."

The couple married in 2006, when Lavigne was 21 — and though it's now over, Lavigne says she's "grateful for our time together, and I am grateful and blessed for our remaining friendship," she wrote on her website.

Another source close to the couple says they were having serious problems for at least six months. But, the source states, the split is "not about Deryck wanting a kid nor is she dating anyone else."

As for rumours that Lavigne got close with oil heir Brandon Davis, the sources said: "There is no romance."

Still, Lavigne was spotted partying in the French Riviera until dawn night after night on Davis' rented yacht, according to a Page Six source:

"She was seen downing shots, drinking booze from the bottle and play-fighting men on the beach ... She wasn't acting like a married woman at all."

Tragedy spurs Nicole to marry?

PUTTING THINGS IN PERSPECTIVE Nicole Richie wants to marry Joel Madden, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The reality TV star — who has a 20-month-old daughter Harlow and newborn son Sparrow with the rocker — has been deeply affected by the death last month of her ex-fiance Adam (DJ AM) Goldstein, and is keen for her and Madden to commit to one another forever.

A source told National Enquirer magazine: "Nicole has never been in a rush to get married to Joel. She's so happy with him and their little family that she didn't feel the need to change the way things were between them."

"But when Adam died, she freaked out. She realized life is fragile and short. She doesn't want to have any regrets at all, and she does want to be Joel's wife."

Khloe's quickie wedding?

RUSHING THINGS? Though Khloe Kardashian and L.A. Lakers forward Lamar Odom have only been dating for a month, they're already planning their wedding, popeater.com cites several media outlets as reporting.

"Khloe and Lamar want to get married before Lamar has to go away for training, and the (basketball) season starts up (this fall). They are hoping to pull together a wedding within the next two weeks so they can get married and have time for a honeymoon," the source said.

"They haven't decided where they will say 'I Do,' but they are scouting out numerous locations, including Khloe's family home in Calabasas, (Calif)," the source continued.

E! News reported Thursday night that Khloe, 25, and her basketball beau, 29, have recently been "talking about rings."

Jessica gives up hunt for Daisy

HOPELESS Jessica Simpson is still looking for her pooch Daisy — who was snatched from her backyard by a coyote last Monday — even though she has a "pretty strong feeling" she won't be found, usmagazine.com reports.

A rep for findtoto.com — which called 1,000 of the singer's neighbours to help find the five-year-old muttipoo earlier this week — tells usmagazine.com they've called off the search.

"We've actually discontinued the search entirely," the company's spokeswoman, Colleen Busch, told Us. "We've contacted Jessica and asked them if they want us to put out more Findtoto alerts, and they don't."

Busch said Simpson and her friends are "trying to be positive but they just have a pretty strong feeling she isn't going to be found. We just didn't get any leads."

On Wednesday, Simpson posted that she was "still holding out hope" of finding her pup — a gift from ex-husband Nick Lachey — even though celeb dog trainer Jennifer McCarthy told Us "she's probably not alive."

Even Martha Stewart has some advice for Simpson. She told Us that Simpson "should have watched it more closely," and advised her to "get another dog."

Taylor to pen Kanye diss?

GETTING EVEN Could Taylor Swift write a song about Kanye West's VMA ambush? When asked by Ryan Seacrest this morning, the 19-year-old says she might — but not until she's recovered from the incident, usmagazine.com reports.

"Well, I think that in order to write a song about something, I have to have clarity and be completely sure and I'm not there yet," she said on Seacrest's KIIS-FM morning radio show Friday.

It wouldn't be the first time the songwriter drew from her own life experiences.

Last year, she released the track, Forever & Always, about her breakup with Joe Jonas.

Her moment at the VMAs also brought her new fans.

"I got flowers from Janet Jackson!" Swift said. "It was the nicest card ever — I took a picture of it! ... Everyone was really sweet to me this week."

Meet the proud parents

LIFE WITH KIDS Josh Kelley is one proud papa, people.com reports.

"We adopted a baby from Korea, me and my girl, and she's awesome, dude! This girl is the bomb!" the singer, who's married to actress Katherine Heigl, gushed at a concert Friday night in Oxford, Ohio.

The couple posted a photo of their adopted daughter from Korea last week. They named her Nancy Leigh — after Heigl's mother Nancy and sister Margaret Leigh — but call her by her nickname Naleigh.

At his show at Miami University, Kelley introduced a song he had just written about Naleigh, singing the lines, "Just to see you in mommy's arms is all I need."

"It's like I have Gerber all over my knee," Kelley told the audience, "and it doesn't even matter, I love it."
